Surfpin Launches PayBySMS in Germany

Monday, 8th January 2007

Merchants can now offer their digital products to the German market with the launch of Surfpin's PaybySMS technology. With a choice of tariffs merchants can specify rates for a one-off purchase of digital content or even a monthly access of a website member's area.

Consumers text a SMS a short code and are issued an 8 digit number. The charge then appears on the consumer's usual telephone bill.

Launching in Germany has opened Surfpin's payment mechanisms to a whole new county of consumers. It is part of our strategy to enable the whole of Europe to accept Surfpin payments.' says Nicholas Grubb, Marketing Director of Surfpin
